

Demonstration Project on Photocatalytic Antibacterial Tiles in South Korea

Kitakyushu: “Support for the development of environmental business in Asia of small- and mid-sized companies”
(FY2011) 64

We have installed photocatalytic antibacterial tiles in washrooms at a manufacturing company’s head offices in South Korea, and by demonstrating their antibacterial effects, we hope to expand sales outlets to South Korean construction companies.

We have succeeded in developing a material with strong antibacterial properties thanks to a photocatalytic coating that uses our proprietary thermal spraying technology. We will be entering the construction market for apartments and other housing by selling to construction companies.
